

Dear NASBA Guests,

Happy New Year! Gaylen and I are excited to be visiting Key West again this year – we hope you are, too. We are giving Gaylen a mulligan on last year's trip.

As many of you know, Key West may be small in size but large on culture, arts and history. One notable passion of the people of Key West is good food. On Friday, January 25, we will enjoy a one-hour trolley tour of the city followed by a fun cooking class focusing on Caribbean cuisine. Not only will we be learning new skills, but we will actually be preparing our own delicious lunch. After the class, you will have the option to shop for a while at the famous Mallory Square (this is also the best spot on the island to watch the sunset) or feel free to head back to the hotel for a little R&R before our dinner that evening.

On Saturday, we have some free time in the morning before a lunch on the Terrace followed by an afternoon snorkel and sailing trip. The grand 69 ft. catamaran, The Marquesa, will be our sailing vessel for the afternoon. Snorkle gear and instruction will be provided as will music and refreshments. Be sure to bring your sunscreen, as Kent Smoll will not be available to “block the sun” for everybody (he'll get a laugh from that!) Later that afternoon, we'll return for a sunset cocktail reception dinner at the hotel's own Hammock Beach.

Thanks Katie and Tom for all your hard work making our trips so fun! We are looking forward to seeing everyone at our first Board of Directors event this year.

Here's to safe travels and safe snorkeling.

See you in sunny Key West,
Colleen

P.S. Lloyd's Tropical Bike Tour (an Eco-Tour of Key West) is a leisurely bike ride along the lesser known, quaint streets and secret lanes of Key West. If you have any interest in joining me in this adventure (possibly on Thursday Jan. 24) please let me or Katie know. I think it would be a fun couple of hours!
